TESTED CATTLE AT DEAL BELT FARM

DR. EAGLE TO FINISH AT HOPKINS TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY.

APPLICATIONS COMING IN

200 Ready in Vicinity of Rose Riley Farm—Chute May Be Made at Bedison.

Dr. T. J. Eagle tested cattle Friday in the vicinity of the Deal Belt farm, with the Belt farm as headquarters. He expects to finish the work there Monday. Tuesday and Wednesday he will complete his tests in the vicinity of Hopkins. He reports that a high percentage of the cattle in the Hopkins vicinity have been submitted for tests.

Dr. Eagle says that many applications are coming in from communities to get testing done. He is assigning dates as rapidly as he thinks he will be able to fill them. An application has come in from the community of the Blain Logan and W. T. Ramsey farms, about four miles north of Maryville. Chutes are to be made at each of these farms and Dr. Eagle will assign dates for the work.

In the vicinity of the Rose Riley farm there are 200 cattle to be tested, according to information that Dr. Eagle has received. It is expected that a chute for the tests will be made at Bedison and the cattle brought there. The Riley Bros. are in charge of the organizing for the work in that vicinity.

Farmers in the Mt. Ayr School district are planning to have tests made. H. E. Heitman, H. A. Younke, Charles DeNeen and George Wright are making arrangements in the community for the tests. Those who want the tests made there should get in touch with one of these four men in order to get the application blanks and information about the dates when they are made.

Dr. Eagle says that it is necessary that those who want the tests made get application blanks, read them and fill them out before the tests of their cattle are made. In order to make the test of the herd through all the stock one month old or older must be tested.

FORMER NODAWAY COUNTY MAN IS ACTIVE.

FOR SUPT. OF SCHOOLS

Nodaway County Should Not Forget the Candidacy of Wm. Oakerson.

In the excitement and flurry of voting for a Democratic senatorial candidate who measures up to the exactments of the year, sight must not be lost of the fact that a party candidate for State Superintendent of Public Schools must also be selected at the August primary. Fortunately only two men are candidates for this democratic honor, William H. Oakerson, Superintendent of Public Schools of Jefferson City, and Charles A. Lee, holding a similar position in the smaller town of Butler, Bates county.

GARDENS THIS YEAR ARE BIG SUCCESS

COLUMN WRITERS MADE POOR PROPHESIES IN SPRING

ROASTING EARS NEXT

Everything is Doing Fine—Second Crops are Being Put Into Some Plots

With all the fun that the column writers poked at the backyard gardener this spring, his garden is proving a lot of comfort to him now and is also saving his pocketbook. So far it has been an unusually successful season for the gardener.

About the only drawbacks there have been this year was the fact that conditions prevented the gardens from being planted very early and a slight drouth came the latter part of May and the first of June. But when things were planted they came right up and grew in a hurry and the greatest damage that the dry weather did the garden was that it cut the crop of peas and early beans a little short.

Pole beans are doing fine. Beets and onions are reaching a good size and late patches of lettuce are supplying all that can be used on the tables. The gardens have been furnishing a supply of cabbage for the table for some time The later sowings of radishes are supplying all needs.

Some of the gardeners are sowing radishes in places where pea vines or other early vegetables have been removed. They are forgetting the old sayings "On the twenty-fifth of July sow your turnips wet or dry" and "July 25 wet or dry sow some turnips for the devil and some for the fly." But perhaps the early sown turnips will make just as large a crop as those that are sown late in the month.

"Soup" beans, such as navies, are being sown now. Another plant, Chinese cabbage, somewhat of a favorite is being sown. It is a kind of cross between the ordinary cabbage and celery Its popularity in this country began growing after the American soldier took part in the suppression of the Boxer rebellion in China. The plant is one that needs a lot of hot weather and for that reason is not sown until late in the season.

Gardeners are beginning to pull back the shucks from the shoots on their sweet corn to see how soon they can have roasting ears. They are also looking over the fence at the patches of their neighbors to see who will get the first mess.

Some late corn is being planted now in hopes that the crop of roasting ears may continue unto the fall. One of the older gardeners of Maryvillle says that he does not believe in planting corn this late since there is a "time for all things and the time for putting corn in the ground is in the spring of the year."

BEDISON PLANS YEAR PROGRAM

COMMUNITY MEETING WAS HELD LAST NIGHT

INTEREST IN LIMESTONE

Want County Agent to Locate Good Seed and Tell Where It Can Be Found

Members of the Bedison community met last night and planned a program for the coming year for the community. Roy A. Kinnaird, county agent was at the meeting. Mr. Kinnaird said that many of the farmers are interested in getting limestone to sweeten the soil for the growth of alfalfa. It is hoped that a carload of limestone can be placed in the Bedison community this fall.

Poultry culling demonstration for the community will be held at the home of A. P. Kidder sometime this fall.

A cattle feeding demonstration will be arranged if members of the community feed cattle this fall. This depends upon the market.

The men are interested in soy beans and ask Mr. Kinnaird to keep them posted on sources of good seed so that they will have plenty of time to get it for next spring planting.

The members of the community want the Hessian fly survey continued and full reports made and for the county agent to give the full information concerning how to control the pests and keep them out of next years crops.

An interest was shown last night in better seed for wheat, oats, barley and other crops. They ask Mr. Kinnaird last night to locate good seed on the different farm of the county and to send the information concerning this seed to other farmers of the county, so they will know where they can get the best seed for next year's planting.

CARLOAD OF ROCK FOR DAM AT 102

TO BE PLACED AT EITHER END OF STRUCTURE

CAN FINISH IN 3 DAYS

But Water Is so High Now That Men Cannot Work—Tower Painted Inside

Work on the dam across One Hundred and Two river near the city pumping station has been suspended for the past few days because of high water. The recent rains have brought the river to a depth of eleven feet near the dam. The water is practically at a stand still now. The new dam is not complete but if the water resided so that the workman can get in some steady work they could complete the new dam in about three days.

A carload of rock which has been ordered for some time has arrived in Maryville and will be taken to the river to fill in on each side of the dam, where the recent high waters washed the banks out. A large fill will be necessary on the east side of the dam and a smaller one on the west bank of the river. The fills will be made of twigs riprapped with stone.

Workmen began this afternoon hauling the stone from the railroad to the river. It will require about three days to unload all of the stone. The stones vary in weight, ranging from about twenty to 100 pounds.

The cleaning of the city water tower in the northwest part of the city has been completed. It was cleaned and the inside given a heavy coat of paint. Mayor Robinson said today that the paint might account for the disagreeable taste of the water today, but that the paint should not taste as the tower was allowed to throughly dry before the water was turned into it. The water was turned into the towner about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

ABOUT HOT WEATHER.

Many people are over sensitive to hot weather. Some take long vacations in cool places and manage to dodge the heat in that way. Others groan and fret on hot days, cool their fevered brows with electric fans, take fast automobile drives to create air currents, and pour unhealthy doses of frozen stuff into their overloaded stomachs.

Farmers have always seemed able to work out doors through the summer heat, and they rarely complain. Inability to keep comfortable and to do a moderate amount of work in hot weather, are usually the result of modern ways of living. Indoor workers probably suffer more from heat than those who work out. This is partly due to poor ventilating arrangements in some workshops.

People who keep up out door life and active exercises become used to these perspiring days. Old time gardeners who always cultivated their vegetables right through the hot spells do not fuss about the hot weather half as much as the ladies of fashion who swelter in their hammocks.

It is sometimes said that warm countries are not so favorable for social progress, owing to the tendency of heat to promote languid habits. Yet the warm countries around the Mediterranean sea were for centuries the chief center of world progress. In our own country the Southern states have seen a marvelous development.

Sensible people moderate their activities somewhat on a hot day, which is no time for hurry and scurry, and move steadily and systematically. Those who are unused to active exercise would better keep somewhat quiet. But healthy people who keep up their activities in the open air, can usually train themselves to bear heat without serious discomfort.

With a lot of people, home is only a filling station.

A lot of people with high aims seem to be mighty poor shots.

Notwithstanding Missouri's efforts at road building, the word has gone over the country that our roads are the worst in the country and tourists both east and west are tipped off to go round Missouri. For this reason, Iowa is getting an increase of tourist travel this year and Missouri is getting less than last year.

Tennessee Lads Learn About Corn

Young farmers who are learning to judge corn under the tutelage of the country demonstration agents in Tennessee. The teachers are sent out from the University of Tennessee in connection with a policy formulated by that university for the educating of the farmer.

Uncle Joe Fordney made an interesting exhibit in Congress the other day in support of the new high tariff bill. The exhibit was a pink silk nightie made in Belgium for $13.40. It cost the American importer, after he paid the present tariff duty, $21.69. The retailer then offered it to New York women for the small pittance of $60. Uncle Joe thinks a higher tariff should be levied so that American makers of such bare necessities should not be subjected to such frightful competition. Where an article can be made in Belgium and brought to this country and be sold for only forty dollars profit on a twenty dollar investment, it is indeed too much to expect the American manufacturer to meet competition like that. The tariff must be higher.

Fifty Years Ago

A new town has been established at McCall's bridge, on the Platte, and the name of the young city is Greeley. It bids fair to be a nice little trading point.

The new postoffice at Winemiller,s mill, on Platte, is known as Winemiller's Mill. It is on the mail line between Hopkins and Grant City.

The sidewalk just put down south of the square adds much to that part of town. If the walk ordered down on Fourth street, east of the square, last winter were finished, it would be a decided advantage; but the good Lord only knows whether it will ever be finished.

The regulations of the Department prescribe that persons desiring rural delivery service shall provide and erect at their own expense boxes conforming to official specifications and requirements, and that the boxes shall, if practicable, be erected on the right-hand side of the road regularly traveled by the rural carrier and in such position as to be easily and safely accessible for the delivery and collection of mail by the carrier without leaving his conveyance. It is required by the Department when, because of traffic conditions, to travel from side to side of the road would endanger the life of the carrier and the safety of the mails, or would be in violation of State and local ordinances in respect to the use of the highways, that all boxes be erected on the right-hand side of the road as regularly traveled by the carrier.

Carriers are directed to make report to postmasters of any boxes which do not conform to the reguiations, or which are improperly erected, and postmasters are required to notify patrons maintaining the boxes to remedy the defects, and if the patrons fail to do so, to make report thereof to the Department. In this event the facts are reviewed, and if such action is found to be warranted, instructions are issued for the withdrawal of service until the requirements are complied with.

An observance on the part of patrons of the regulations noted above is essential to an expeditious and efficient service, and you are requested to cooperate in an effort to maintain the best posible service by promptly correcting the irregularity in your box as indicated by item or items checked below, thus facilitating the work of the carrier and avoid any interruption in the delivery and collection of your mail".

FEAR FINANCIAL AND ECONOMIC COLLAPSE FOR GERMANY

London, July 8—British officials openly expressed fears that financial and economic collapse in Germany is evitable. Premier Lloyd George is giving personal attention to the problem. The Biritish cabinet has the situation under advisement. The value of the German mark, worth 24 cents before the war ,is now worth only one fifth of a cent.

Forumettes

The quicker we learn that all
The world owes us is the Right to work the quicker we
Will get on the road to success.

With the electric fans on these days we are reminded that they are like some Maryville men. Always blowing.

The other day a man was observed going through Maryville having this sign on his automobile. Howdy, Half the Road Belong to You."

The question with the average Maryville man is not where to spend his vacation but where to get the money to spend.

A Maryville bounder took his best girl out canoeing the other day and the frail craft overturned. He felt he was very important when he had to swim a little with the young woman in his arms but when they reached the shallow water she chided him for his carlessness in upsetting the boat and getting her clothing wet.

Uncle Abner, says you must put your shoulder to the wheel if you can't get some other fool to do it.

Not so long ago something like this appeared in the society pages, and we venture not one male reader in one thousand con tell what it is all about. "The bands are of shirred Valenciennes lace of deepest gold and this note is repeated in the turn over Monk's collar of organdie.....girded loosely with two toned grosgrain ribbon."

There is no courage like that of a woman who lies for some good-for-nothing husband, she knows is wrong and yet loves.

Something that can't be found—a pretty girl who does not know it.

It is always best to look on the bright side and if it is something you are buying you better look on both sides.

Louise, the stenographer, says no woman cares how a dress looks so long as it is in style and no other woman has one like it.

The bad man of old used to count his victims by notches on his gun. Today he counts the bruises on his car.

The man who does not know when to be silent does not know when to talk.

To forgive is divine, but to sidestep is diplomatic.

Vagrant Musings

The danger in calling a man a fool is that he may be fool enough to resent it.

It is a poor way to excuse a wrong by saying some one else is doing it.

Gossips go around stabbing decent citizens in the back.

A weak man is generally ashamed of everything but his weakness.

Pride makes some people foolish and keeps others from being so.

The Road to Yesterday

Who of us can't remember the day when the hay-rack ride and tallyho were past the thing to go in for a picnic in some country grove?

The Difference in Advertising Is the Difference in Men

Of itself, advertising is little. And the differences in it are the differences which exist in men.

Just as some men are strong and virile and interesting, so is some advertising. And just as some men are ineffectual and weak and boring, so is some other advertising.

"Does it pay to advertise?" It pays those men who are keen enough students of the public to make it pay them. It pays those men who are truthful, sincere, interesting and believable.

It pays the men whose product deserves the payment, whose brains are keen enough to organize for success and judge enough of the human mind to know how to tell their story with sincerity and interest.

So when you judge advertising, judge it by how it is used and by whom—not of itself and of itself alone.

Remember, an ugly man looks just as ugly in a mirror.

A PLEASANT PLACE FOR GENTLE FOLKS.

Brought To Notice By PrincessMary's Wedding Gown

When Princess Mary, Viscountess Lascelles, added a gold lace train to her wedding gown for wear at the first court, she brought once more to notice the beauty of white combined with gold from a sartorial standpoint. White and silver as well as white and crystal have been seen a good deal this season, but now the vogue of white and gold bids fair to outrank the popularity of those other combinations.

The feather belt is appearing on numerous chic Parisian dance frocks. It is rather a relief because of the change from glittering metal girdles and festoons of giddy satin flowers. Sometimes the feathers are tiny ostrich tips, standing up briskly all around the waistline. Usually, however, the belt is composed of feathers with long fringe-like frounds which wave gracefully with every movement of the wearer. Shrimp pink is effective with a white feather belt, bright green with black, but the tendency is to have the feathers match the costume.

No sleeve at all, or the very tiniest hint of one, is correct for the evening gown this summer. A simple silhouette is desirable at present for evening, and Lucile, for example, is concentrating on long and picturesque proportions. Some of the Lucile evening frocks are almost direct copies of frocks seen at the court of Louis XVI. They have frills and scallops, puffs and berthas, and a quantity of lace and a few of the gowns necessarily depart from the simple silhouette characteristic of the majority.

IS MARVEL OF MECHANISM

"Great Balance" of the Bank of England Capable of Registering Weight of Thistledown.

The "great balance" stands in the bullion room of the Bank of England. It is a machine that was constructed, primarily, for testing light gold coins.

Standing approximately seven feet high and weighing nearly two tons, this wonderful piece of mechanism can weigh a piece of thistledown or a 400-pound gold bar with equal accuracy.

Before it can be used it must always be carefully dusted, for otherwise the dust that has settled upon it, even in the course of a few minutes, although invisible to the naked eye, would cause it to register inaccurately. So responsive is the machinery that a postage stamp placed on one of the two weighing portions moves the index six inches.

When the new English currency notes were issued the grand balance was kept busy virtually day and night weighing the gold coinage that was called in and replaced by notes. It has now been found that the total loss of gold, owing to the abrasion of the coins as they passed from hand to hand in the course of circulation amounts to nearly $5,000,000.

That, however, is not quite so alarming as it sounds, for the loss is spread over a period of 25 years. Twenty-five years is reckoned in England to be the legal "life" of a sovereign at its full face weight.—New York Herald.

DIDN'T CARRY OUT THE JOKE

Young Man Probably Was Wise In Not Impersonating the "Family Ghost" for Butler's Benefit.

Among the guests at an English country house one Christmas was a young gentleman who claimed to be able to "read character at a glance."

"Now, there's your butler," he remarked to his host. "I've seen little of the man, but I would undertake, by merely playing the family ghost, to frighten him into a fit!"

"I don't think you would!" laughed the host. "Anyhow, you have my consent to try."

The young fellow declared his intention to do so, but as he didn't wish to overdo the thing, he determined to drop a word of warning to the butler.

"I say, Briggs," he whispered to that individual on meeting him in the corridor, "you haven't seen the family ghost, have you? I'm told that he invariably walks on Christmas eve, y'know!"

"Thank you for the hint, sir," calmly replied the butler. "One hint should be worth another, sir, and"—here he dived his hand into a back pocket, and produced a wicked-looking revolver—"here's one for the ghost if you should see him first, sir!"

The young gentleman decided that, after all, he couldn't carry the joke any further.

Magna Charta Draws Visitors.

After 700 years, Magna Charta remains the most popular British manuscript. Last year 14,000 persons went to the British museum to see it. Americans invariably ask to view the famous charter which insures Englishmen their rights, according to the museum custodians, but other foreigners take more interest in the papal bull, which is displayed next to it.

Heavy green blinds are kept over the precious parchment to exclude the full light rays and thus prevent deterioration, but are lifted to show the charter to admiring pilgrims.

Most persons are disappointed at not seeing King John's signature, according to an official at the museum but they seem satisfied when they read the script that it was "given by our hand in the meadow which is called Ronimede, between Windlesor and Stanes, on the 15th day of June in the 17th reign of our reign. (1215.)"

Women in China.

In the New International Encyclopedia, edition of 1902, the following statement was made: "In China proper not more than 6 per cent of the men and 2 per cent of the women can read an ordinary book." But a great advancement in the education of women has been made during the last twenty years. The Encyclopedia Americana, published in 1920, says: "Until very recently, female education, so far as it existed, was mainly a private or a family affair. Of late years, largely through missionary influence and example, the education of women has made surprising progress and the tendency is now strongly toward more equality in intellectual training without regard to sex."

Gas Has 2,000 Industrial Uses.

Artificial gas is lightening the labors of housewives in the homes of 49,000,000 Americans, and is the "silent partner" of industry, where it has upward of 2,000 uses. The vast sum of $4,000,000,000 has been invested in the plants and equipment. Approximately 4,600 communities now have gas, the mains being equal in mileage to nearly three times the circumference of the earth. It is used in more than 7,000,000 cooking stoves and appliances, 1,500,000 water heaters and 1,000,000 gas heaters and has become so necessary to industry that thousands of manufacturing plants would be forced to close if the gas companies were unable to continue to supply them with gas.

A Matter of Policy.

"I just saw your wife out in your neighbor's motorcar. Why don't you take her out in your own?"

"Oh, we've just made our wills in each other's favor."

Everyone is interested in looking at the new timepiece in the window of the Northwestern Bank. Farmers of Nodaway County Can Secure Free Advice on Making Saving

Jefferson City, July 8—Five million dollars is lost yearly by the people of Missouri and the farmers of Nodaway County are losing their part of this vast sum Our loss can be stopped.

This loss is caused by producers not knowing how to properly grade and market their eggs. Commission men find it profitable to grade the eggs they have purchased from farmers.

The State Marketing Bureau has several expert egg graders in the field instructing farm folks how to grade their eggs so that the producer may realize the very best market price for that product.

Any product dealer can secure the services of some of these expert graders by making application to Arthur T. Nelson, of the State Marketing Bureau. This service is free and meetings will be held at places where interest in the matter justifies. Every produce dealer owes it to his trade to secure these experts for demonstrations and conferences of the men employed will be in demand from all sections of the state. If one of these meetings is held near you, and you either sell or buy eggs, it is certainly to your advantage to attend the meeting.

The Marketing Bulletin, published by the State Marketing Bureau at Jefferson City, is free to every one and the issue of July 15 will be dedicated to the Egg Standardization Program now being carried on throughout Missouri. If you are interested in better prices for eggs, fill in and mail the following coupon to the State Marketing Bureau, Jefferson City, Mo.

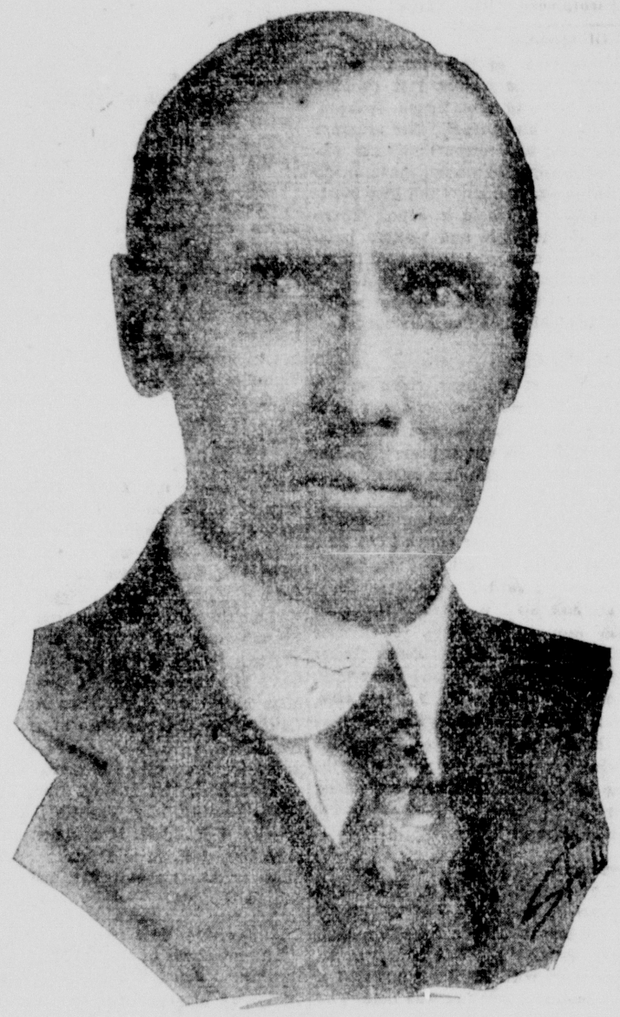
William E. Spratt for CONGRESS

The Fourth Congressional District has only had three Republican Congressmen in the past 47 years. No Republican Congressman in this district has ever gone back for a second term. A Round Trip Ticket to Washington was all any one of them has ever needed.



Four years ago Wm. E. Spratt was just nosed out of the nomination by Mr. Booher by the small maoritjy of 150 votes in the entire district of six counties. Mr. Spratt was for four years or two terms elected Mayor of St. Joseph. When he was elected on the Democratic ticket for the first time he was the only man on the ticket that was successful. The second time he was elected, every man on the ticket from top to bottom was elected with him. For eight years thereafter the city of St. Joseph remained in the Democratic Ranks.

Victor Wray, who lives at Orrsburg, has a 5-acre patch of corn which was planted only about five weeks ago and which is waist high. Mr. Wray laid it by when he plowed it Wednesday. E. R. Carter, store keeper at Orrsburg, says that he has watched the corn grow and that he never has seen any do so well.

Robert Nigh

Robert Nigh has a field of eighteen or twenty acres of corn a mile north of Orrsburg that was planted about the same time as the field of Mr. Wray and which is just as big. The fields on both the farms are ground that has not been farmed for some time. Mr. Wray's field was formerly a feed lot.

MARE HAS TWINS---ONE A MULE AND THE OTHER A HORSE COLT

May Sound Fishy, But W. H. Watkins Has the Picture to Show For It

Twin colts, two months old and both doing well.

Horsemen say that this is a little unusual, since it generally happens that when a mare gives birth to twins they do not live.

But here's the remarkable thing about it. One of the colts is just a plain baby horse. The other is a long-eared, four-legged baby of the Missouri mocking bird type. In other words he is a little mule.

It all sounds fishy but W. H. Watkins, a student in the State Teachers College has a picture of the mother and her family and swears that he took it on the farm of J. A. Tuck at Gower. Mr. Watkins' people live in Gower and he took the picture when he was there spending the Fourth of July.

Mr. Watkins says that hundreds of people have gone to the Tuck farm to look at the colts. Vetenarians for forty miles around have been there and say that they consider it a phenomenon.

The mother is a large bay percheon The horse colt will be a bay and the mule colt will be a black. Both of the colts are males. Mr. Watkins says that the twins get along well together and the aristocratic horse colt does not seem to resent in the least the presence of his long-eared brother.

WILL A. SHULLENBERGER BECOMES DOCTOR OF DIVINITY

Is Son of Mrs. J. A. Shullenberger of Maryville—Conferred at Drake University.

The Rev. Will A. Shullenberger, son of Mrs. J. A. Shullenberger and a brother of Miss Florence Shullenberger and Mrs. Walter Westfall of this city, was recently honored at Drake University commencement by having conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity. The following article is taken from the Christian Worker, the publication of the Central Church of Christ of Des Moines, Ia., of which church Mr. Shullenberger is pastor, and is written by Jesse C. Caldwell, dean of the College of Bible:

At Drake's commencement, on June 1, the institution honored Central's successful pastor, W. A. Shullenberger by conferring upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity.

Mr. Shullenberger has always been one of the most loyal and enthusiastic Drakes. He graduated in the College of Liberal Arts in 1904. Out of this period of Drake's missionary enthusiasm, there went forth from her walls such missionaries as Daisy Drake, Zona Smith, Charles Vannoy, Leslie Wolfe, Louis Jaggard, Justin Brown and Charles S. Settlemeyer; also a group of great missionary pastors; among these was Mr. Shullenberger. The place of influence which he had in college as a leader among his fellows has continued in the general councils of the church. At present, he is a member of the Board of Managers of the United Christian Missionary Society.

In 1916, Mr. Shullenberger was elected one of the trustees of the University and has given without stint of his time and ability for the advancement of Drake. For several years, he has been president of the Alumni Association Each year he has been a lecturer in the College of the Bible giving an hour every Thursday afternoon to the training of the young men in the practical affairs of the church along the lines which have made him so pre-eminent an administrator.

The Degree of Doctor of Divinity is only conferred by an institution of the standing of Drake upon those who have rendered distinguished service. Drake felt that in honoring one of her own sons she was doing but justice to one who had brought honor upon his Alma Mater by making himself a great preacher and a great community and religious statesman, and in using his ability for making God's world a kingdom of God.

JESSE C. CALDWELL, Dean
College of the Bible.

RADIO REX ARRIVES FOR YOUR APPROVAL

Rests Quietly in His Kennel Until Some One Calls, Then He's Outside

The latest in the way of Radio work in Maryville is to summons Rex a celluloid member of the canine family, from his kennel by wireless. Miss Ola Smith has the entire apparatus including the dog, at the city hall. A small kennel painted red and which has its back filled with various mechanisms such as a battery a coil and other conventions, lodges in a celluloid dog named Rex. Rex is well content with his housing until the air around it is disturbed with some one shouting his name and then as a result of radio he leaps from his house.

Prospering in the West.

From Albany Capital.

Judge Lester Hawthorne, who last week returned with his bride from their tour of the West, was over attending the meeting of the county court Monday. At Los Angeles they spent a few days with Mrs. Hawthorne's father, C. J. Colden, who represented Nodaway county in the Missouri legislature back in the early nineties and who established and successfully ran the Nodaway Forum at Maryville for a number of years. His Missouri friends are glad to know that Mr. Colden has been successful in a big way in real estate operations on the coast. One deal that made him a handsome profit was when he secured a tract of land at San Pedro overlooking the Los Angeles harbor, and cut it up into 300 town lots. He has since sold 200 of these lots at a nice profit, and, in view of the fact that oil wells are being put down right against his property, and that the city is growing at a rapid rate, he has taken the rest of his land off the market for the present. Seven years ago, when Mr. Colden went to Los Angeles, San Pedro was a town 7,000 people. It now has about 30,000; is an incorporated part of Los Angles, and the city is spreading away back of it in the hills so there is no telling what the value of the rest of the Colden land holdings may be. Mr. Colden is mixing in the political game some in the West, being strongly urged by his friends to make the race in his Los Angeles district for membership in the California legislature.

The new garage building on North Buchanan street, which is being built by David Angell, is being put under metal roof by Lloyd Geist. The roof, when completed, will be one of largest metal roofs in town.

IS ESTIMATED 200 METAL ARE USED IN COUNTY

Are a Saving in Labor at Threshing Time and Provide a Safe Storage For Grain

A metal grain bin for demonstration is been constructed on the lot west of the Tribune building by the Holt Supply Company. It is estimated that about 200 of these bins are now being used in Nodaway County. It is only during the past three or four years that they have been used. Most of the ones in use throughout the county are of two sizes, the 500 bushels and the 1,000 bushels sizes. More of the smaller size are demanded according to the local merchants.

The bins are made of galvanized steel and are used in many cases to save labor during busy seasons. They are constructed in the wheat field near the threshing machine and the grain turned into them from the machine. This saves labor when it is most needed on the farm.

The bins afford protection from practically every common cause. They are fire and rat proof, they are weather tight and when set directly on the ground, or grounded with metal, they act as a conductor of electricity, eliminating the damage from lightning stroke.

The bin can be taken apart in sections and moved from one place to another on the farm or to adjoining farms. If the distance is not great they can easily be moved on a skid platform with a team or tractor.

Many of the bins are constructed in town and then moved to the farms and many of them are taken to the farms in sections and erected there.

There are many reasons why it is not economy to repair a battery that has ceased to operate properly.

A battery whose plates are good and where age is not excessive can usually be repaired and will give from six months to a years service.

A battery that will not give this measure of service is not worth repairing. True we could put such a battery together and it would operate, but the owner would not get his money's worth.

Our policy is to make repairs first, and if we cannot give you full service for your money you had better take the same amount and apply it on a new Vesta that you know will operate properly.

Service First, Sales Second.

We also open the battery in the customers presence when possible. Then when a battery is unfit for repair the customer sees it at once and eliminates any chance for argument.

Vesta Service is Real Service and we are under definite policies as laid down in The Vesta Code.
